Supporting documents

- Submit agent consent form. (An agent will give you this PDF to sign)
- Submit employer supporting reference. (An agent will give you this PDF to sign)
- Personal statement. (1 page document saying why you want to study the course and a little bit about yourself and previous experiences as a teacher.)

English language qualifications

A qualification or test to show how good your English level is. Only applicable for those from non-native English-speaking countries.

If you have a degree from the UK, USA, AUD, IRE, CAD, you will not need to take an IELTS test. If you do not have the above, don't worry! You can take a Duolingo English exam online; Easy and fast. The results will show the university you can study the course. Contact us to book your English test. Our agency has good connections with the university, so we can guarantee that you will get a place onto the PGCE course, our agents are determined to make sure you have all the documents needed. Check out the Duolingo English test below to see how simple it is to complete!

Work experience

Your previous and current employment within China or as a teacher. Start date, end date and your responsibilities in each role. Also need a reference letter for the past two positions you had.

If you have a CV / resume with all these details, send that over! Please also get references and recommendation letters from your previous and current employers to support you. We will need to upload all your teaching experience to the application. Please help provide us with the name of your school when you started and finished and a little bit about your responsibilities at the school. If you need to see examples, ask our agents!

Important Information

- All documents must be in English.

If your documents are not in English, like your qualifications, they will need to be translated into English before submitting to the university. You can use any translating service you like; it doesn't need to be certified.

- All documents are data protected.

All the documents and information sent to our agents are under the data protection act. Meaning it is our job to keep your data safe and protected. Contact our agency on how we protect your data.
